YEAR 1932 NOW

HISTORY

By the time this issue of The Tribune has reached our readers the year 1932 will be history.

As material prosperity concerned, no regrets will be expressed at its exit for the year has been a good one.

But as far as spiritual progress is concerned they face the future notwithstanding conditions with faith in the country and faith in themselves to move through the many difficulties with which their path "Hopes" springs eternal in the human breast.

To the aroused whom the shadow of the coming year is beginning to settle, the New Year is a landmark reminding him of the inconsistency of the human being—and a very costly one.

TARIFS RUN MAD

There appears in the Killarney copy of the Tribune of December 28 the following story, reproduced from Washington:

"North Dakota farmers are letting the price of grain in the field because the price is too low to pay for digging. A short distance to the north, Manitoba grasshoppers, lost three crops, and have not even enough to eat. North Dakota farmers are letting the price of grain in the field because the price is one of them."

PLAYING THE GAME FROM THE OBSERVATION CAR

Curling is a great game. It simply does something to people. I simply do not understand it. I am up to a position on the front seat and get close-up on a neck-and-neck game. Behind me was a well-known citizen of the city who had been a champion in curling.

Here are a few of his comments, all made to himself. So far as he is concerned, he is not one in the observation car:

"Oh, hang it, took the wrong road. He's got to be a fool. What's he doing? Why should he do so?"

"Well, what's he doing? Why should he do so?"

"Well, what's he doing? Why should he do so?"

GOOD INTENTIONS TRAPPED CHAIN GANG FUGITIVE

Ironically, it was the good intentions of his brother, the Rev. Vincent Burns, that were instrumental in landing his son, the hero of "The Am. in Paris," from a Florida chain gang. When the law, with a return of justice stinging him in the back, took the Rev. Burns, fearing his brother's arrest, approached the Newark, N.J., police authorities with a plea that they ignore the presence of his brother, Robert, in the city. Up to then, the police apparently had no idea that the hunted man was in the city, but when they learned of the Rev. Burns' visit, they arrested him. The Rev. Burns' efforts to stop the chain gang on being convicted of a hold-up in Atlanta in 1922. He escaped a few months later, and evaded capture till seven years later, then a successful magazine editor. He was turned over to the police by his publisher, who had been the target of the gang. The author of "The Am. in Paris," whose story in a newspaper in New Jersey wrote the book that brought him home. The fugitive's mother, Mrs. Catherine Burns, is hopeful that her son will be pardoned this time, and is said to have approached President-elect Roosevelt on the matter.

MONSTERS OF THE DEEP

Expedition Will Sink Lights Five Miles In Ocean Depth

Trundling the "monsters" of monsters of the ocean deeps, who may send their foul oils and mysterious gases into the air, is the aim of an expedition announced by the Smithsonian Institution.

The first of the five will be built with enough lights to illuminate five miles under the Atlantic in regions as far unexplored.

The creatures that live there under pressure of water are so strange and weird and have no normal eyes for use of the inky darkness.

There will be five of them of different colors and intensities will be lowered to learn which best attracts the deepest animals.

NEWEST PLANS CAN BE CONTROLLED BY ONE FINGER

An acrobatic which can be flown, maneuvered and controlled with only one finger is the latest toy of the day.

The machine is of the autogyro "Windmill" type and is being built under the direction of G. O. Glavin.

There is only one control for all movements of the machine. Apart from the pilot who sits in front, closing the throttle, the whole control of the craft literally can be done with one finger.

Mr. Chambers is shown above with his ancient Dutch skates that have carried him for 60 years since he was a boy of 12. He hopes to continue his annual trip until he reaches the age of 100.

FOUNDER OF AUSTRALIA HONORED

A memorial on the outside wall of St. Mildred's Church, London, commemorating the birth of Admiral Arthur Phillips, Governor of the first Australian colony, who landed at Botany Bay, Australia, in 1788, was unveiled recently. Prince George, Duke of Kent, at the moment of unveiling, shows the memorial, which takes the shape of a bronze bust of Admiral Phillips at the base of a central pillar. Also on the panel below the bust is a small plaque presented by a model of the H.M.S. Supply, the only ship present at the landing of the first party, and behind the ship is a representation of the rising sun. It is a beautiful work of art.

WAR DEBTS AND CREDITS
CANNOT BE DIVIDED UNLESS ALLIES GET CREDIT FOR DEAD

An article in the Montreal Star says it is a fair conjecture that the payment of war debts will add considerably to the amounts which the European nations will ultimately have to pay. If they go on paying, but however, the other Allies are not fully stamped. Nothing will start her again. She commences with a great initial effort, but the final result of the war debt always was small. If she does not pay, how can France and Great Britain, who are the principal opponents, be a moral force in the world that the war debts are simply an artifact, and therefore cannot be expected to be divided into debts and credits—which cannot morally be divided—between the Allies? The cost of the war from Monas to Chateau Thierry.

LARGEST BRIDGE IN EUROPE
WILL BE BUILT BY DENMARK

Denmark is preparing to construct what is believed to be the largest bridge in Europe, the Great Belt Bridge between Zealand and the island of Falster, and will be completed in 1940. The total length will be 10,827 feet and the height 85 feet. The cost will total approximately $10,000,000. Work will be started immediately and the structure to be completed in 1940. It is the first link in the proposed route between Copenhagen and Hamburg.

HER TO BRITISH THRONE IS AN EXPERT CONJUROR

For people know the full extent of the Prince of Wales' accomplishments. His skill with a sword, of course, widely known; but he laments that he seldom finds a partner who can keep up with his brilliant rhythmic steps. The Prince is also a pastmaster in the art of conjuring, and, in fact, has performed a few small magical acts a few years ago. Such tricks as turning a handkerchief into a rabbit, and the like, however, are small fry to the Prince. His ambition in this line, however, is to be the first to perform a real "self-hoisting" trick. Several needles are swallowed (sic), then a rest of cotton, and a glass of water. With the curtains drawn, the expert says, "there, presto!" the needles are taken out of the mouth all nicely caught!

MEETING REVENGE FOR PARIS

The Citroen electrically lighted ad. on Eiffel Tower calls Paris into focus. The tribal artist considered the most important in the world is added in a new name for the city. It changes him into a giant rose bush, a sky-high mountain rising and falling, etc. Onion-skin does it burst into full bloom, springing out of the ground.

CHILDREN VERY OFTEN IGNORANT OF MOST SIMPLE THINGS IN LIFE

The movie coach was passing the Braes of Braemore, one of the famous beauty spots of the Scottish Highlands, and the driver mentioned that Raff had never lay some two miles off the road.

A small boy—and a Scottish small boy—sat behind, turned to his mother.

"Who was Rob Roy?" he asked.

"Of course you know," the mother replied, "he was a robber."

It may sound unbelievable, but the writer has seen many such incidents occur and can vouch for its truth. And, unfortunately, too many young people have just as startling in their knowledge.

A year or ago, in an official report, a London school inspector revealed that the fact that most schoolchildren didn't know where such famous places as Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral, and Buckingham Palace are to be found.

He also stated that a third of the children in London, one of London's most populous districts, had never seen the Thames, although the river was less than an hour's walk from their homes.

There are thousands of other children in cities who have never seen a fountain, a park, a garden, and even haven't the remotest idea of what cows are for.

These journeys are doing something to remedy this state of affairs, but there is still a great deal of ignorance of the simplest and most elementary things among our young people.

Yet greater importance is supposed to be given to improving the mind. And the average child today does know about railways and motor-cars, and the like.

This is all to the good, for we live in a machine age. But there is something more to life than just mechanics. It seems only fair that the children aren't learning about the other things as well.

GIGANTIC BILLBOARDS OFTEN DISTRACT DRIVER'S ATTENTION FROM IMPORTANT TRAFFIC DIRECTIONS

There are two counts against the billboard on the highway. It not only mars the landscape and destroys the beauty of the scene, but it also distracts the attention of the driver of the car. The billboards are often placed along the road are often lost in a cluster of commercial signs. In the interests of safety, the commercial signs on the highway should be those placed there by the highway department to direct traffic.

CLANING HISTORIC FIGURES

Considerable success has attended the first tentative experiments in cleaning the famous wax effigies of Queen Anne, King George II, and King George III, which have stood in their respective cases for centuries and some experts predicted that they would cling to the wax for years. The wax was removed but such has not proved the case. Here we see Queen Anne, who has always been a source of interest, chiefly because they could not be washed. Lord Baldwin, who will be surprised to learn that under her fine brocades Queen Anne is wearing a leather petticoat.

BRITAIN READY TO SEEK NEW DEAL ON DEBTS

The Mother Country has chosen the three delegates to go to Washington to negotiate a new settlement on the war debts just as soon as our delegates to the Smith Commission make up their minds as to when and with whom, agents of the British ministry may negotiate.

FIRE AND FLOOD CAUSE HAVOC IN TOKIO

What with floods and fires Japan's great city of Tokio has recently been getting more than a fair share of trouble. Two big fires, one in the business section and another in the slums, have caused tremendous damage to life and property, while the suburbs and outskirts of Tokio have suffered much damage therefrom. Above we see the view of the wrecked Aszuma Primary School buildings which collapsed when the raging waters laid low hundreds of homes and buildings.

MORTGAGE ON ST. PAUL'S MANSE TO BE BURNED

In these trying days, especially for voluntary institutions such as the churches, it is encouraging to hear of such a gesture as this.

The mortgage on the manse belonging to St. Paul's United Church, has due to the efforts of the members of the Ladies Aid, been paid in full since the manse was purchased in 1927. It will be burned with the manse, according to the congregation, which will take the form of a supper meeting next Wednesday evening: Jan. 12.

Reports of the work of the various organizations in the church for 1932 will be presented at the meeting. The supper will commence at 6:15 p.m. and the meeting at 7 p.m. Those unable to attend the supper may go to the meeting at 7 p.m.

THE VALUE

It is not the gift
But the giving that counts,
Not the dollar amount
That counts.
It's the thought that's behind,
And the love that we find—
At the harbour the gift.—
That is treasure.

Prosperity Can Only Come Thru Gates of God

"And Semacherib, King of Assyria, came."

These words, taken from Second Chronicles, thirty-second chapter, was the subject of an interesting sermon preached by Rev. E. A. Wright, of the Evangelical Free Church on Sunday evening last.

"Hezekiah, who was the ruling king of Judah, had been a good example of the best and wisest of the Jewish rulers," said Mr. Wright at the outset of his sermon.

The Jewish people had fallen away from Jehovah. Hezekiah had tried to bring them back to the true God, but he did not succeed.

The speaker contended that the Jews still would have ruled if they had not forgotten God. It was Mr. Wright's opinion that the people of Judah were very often when wealth comes in at the door, god goes out the window.

The Jew, who was the ruler of the Jewish people, had been a good example of the best and wisest of the Jewish rulers, said Mr. Wright.

The speaker believed that the Jews would still have ruled if they had not forgotten God. It was Mr. Wright's opinion that the people of Judah were very often when wealth comes in at the door, god goes out the window.

When the people of Israel had fallen away from Jehovah, Hezekiah had tried to bring them back to the true God, but he did not succeed.

PARDON ON ST. NICHOLAS

Twas the day after Christmas, when all th' live house, when Every creature was stirring, yes even I. And mamma in her kerchief and I in my cap had all the idea of taking a nap. There were nutcrackers, and candies, and peeling galaxies. And everything else, that could be drawn on the floor; The tree was decorated with tinsel and gold. And was bodily hoisted out into the cold.

We formed a brigade, and we dusted and swept. The cushions were smeared, so that even the grumpy old Santa Claus, and his helpers, had Mollie's new sled and soft ball.

No. of days was tossed in a corner with Mammie's new doll.

St. Nicholas, you come again, we'll also ache. In children, the external canals may be injured by the mother who is pulling on the ear of the child's ears. Children's ears should not be pulled, or boxed, or poked at; red and swollen harm may result from these practices.

The nose, mouth and throat of a child should not have tension. The nose should not be pinched. The nose should never be compressed when it is being cleared. Cold air is to treat the nose, not the throat. Earaches need prompt and proper attention if serious conditions are to be avoided.

Questions concerning health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College Street, Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. J. Haworth wish to thank all their friends and neighbors for their sympathy and understanding shown and assistance given during the recent loss of their father, Mr. Frederick Large.

A fine is the most effective way of registering a social disapproval and a punishment for a child who has been away from home for a long time as a part of our penal system. But who can defend a system which fails to provide the opportunity for a child to prove his worthiness and improve his behavior? A scientific system of fines which are more related to the capacity of the individual to pay than to the gravity of the offense for the first time.

The Emmaus Choral Club gathered at the Emmaus Church to be picked up by the Snowy Heights concert. While there they enjoyed themselves to the extreme. They were greatly entertained by Snowy Heights citizens. We all join in thanking these citizens for their kind hospitality. We hope that the time will come when we can return the favor.

In spite of the fact that Rivergate had a longer concert was well put on. The children and grown-ups alike did their very best. Mr. Timm was one of the most popular and chairman. The Journey home was as well enjoyed as the trip down in spite of the weather.

The Emmaus Choral Club and their director, Mrs. F. G. Gaher, with thanks to the Emmaus Church for their invitation and with the staff and editor a very prosperous New Year.

CROOKED CREEK

A party from Blackie, Alta., arrived at their homestead south of here last Saturday and report the roads good all the way.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Reynolds of Sturgeon Heights returned after spending their holidays across the river.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude O'Keefe and son had New Year's dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gray.

Several attended the dance at Del Norte on Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Wenzl and Mr. and Mrs. Clegg and boys spent New Year's Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Griffiths.

Jack Charney spent New Year's at Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gray's.

WEBSTER NEWS

Emee Tink from Riverton, arrived in Webster with a load of grain, almost before breakfast. These dances give him a good time.

A very good concert was held in Webster on December 22. Miss Palmer was the soloist and the band was excellent.

For some reason, there were not many people, which was lacking in quality, but made up in quantity. At about 11 o'clock the judges had finished their judging and the audience was told that the best was still to come.

There were complaints heard,

but the audience was very pleased with the program.

Mr. Wilbert Ferris captured the gentleman's comic and Mrs. Norton's singing.

After the dance was resumed until much later. And speaking of which, the arrangements were made for another dance on Friday night.

During the evening the music was heard that the music alone was worth the admission price.

The next dance will be held in the hall on Friday, January 13, and will be an old-time dance.

This will be another good one.

You old-timers will be there and the young ones will be there and ready to do your stuff. Where? At Beaufort Inn, Webster.

It is the best time and the cheapest admission of any place in the country.

Speaking of Christmas, we would like to know who, in all this country, set the biggest table.

We would like to know who registered 20 degrees below zero and many projected visits to friends were made in the cold.

Many people are staying indoors and the snow is falling.

It is a good time to go skating.
